Love is being a chair that a tired man can sit in Love is being the shade from the sun that he can rest in Love is being a soldier to fight for what you believe in
And love is giving

Love is being a fountain in the desert she can drink from
Love is seeing a storm and offering protection Love is the giving of both hands to catch the tears in motion
And love is open

Love is deep as is wide
And taller than tall
Love is stronger than steel
Still it bends through it all

But it's everything
A wounded hearts wing
Love is, love is, love is
All of those things

Love is being a candle that will chase away the darkness
Love is being the strength to someone who is defenseless
Love is praying for those who are searching for forgiveness
And love, love is children

Love is deep as is wide
And taller than tall
Love is stronger than steel
Still it bends through it all

But it's everything
A wounded hearts wing
Love is, love is, love is
All of those things

Ohh, yeah

Love is deep as is wide
And taller than tall
Love is stronger than steel
Still it bends through it all

And it's everything
A wounded hearts wing
Love is, love is, love is
All of those things

All of those things
All of those things
