I can't hide this anymore
I've got to speak up It's time to say what the fuck's on my mind It's your smile that I miss and your A fake smile behind a wounded face
With hands to hide the doubt you have in faith

So deep inside of you

You're the saddest life my eyes have seen Suffocating in your own fucking doubt
Your own doubt in faith
And I know exactly how this has come about [x2]

As long as I can remember you've always been this miserable
And it's all because you're still believing in something fucking invisible

Making time to think has made you weak in your own convictions [x2]

As long as I can remember you've always been this
miserable
And it's all because you're still believing in something
fucking invisible [x2]
