Me debunk an American myth?

And take my life in my hands?

Where the great plains begin,

at the hundredth meridian.

At the hundredth meridian,

where the great plains begin

Driving down a corduroy road, weeds standing shoulder high

Ferris wheel is rusting off in the distance

At the hundredth meridian where the great plains
begin

Left alone to get gigantic;

hard, huge and haunted

A generation so much dumber than its' parents came crashing through the window.

A raven strains along the line of the road, carrying a muddy, old skull.

The wires whistle their approval, off down the distance.

I remember, I remember Buffalo and I remember

Hengelo

It would seem to me I remember every single fucking thing I know

If I die of vanity, promise me, promise me, they bury me someplace I don't want to be,

you'll dig me up and transport me, unceremoniously,

away from the swollen city-breeze, garbage-bag trees, whispers of disease and the acts of enormity and lower me slowly, sadly and properly

Get Ry Cooder to sing my eulogy,
