I love you even when I don't even know I'm doing it and dismiss it out of hand cause I don't even know I'm doing it but your finger starts to wiggle and landscapes emerge

Can you spare some change dear, we've only got three hundred feet to go

Roses are worth more dried than alive such a thing to say

O how I adore you when you reinvent a rose cliché

Can you spare some change dear

we've only got three hundred feet to go and with impossibilium for a payload we lift the rocket out of the pocket

nothing can stop it

Roses are difficult everywhere you must promise me you'll stay these longstems are freakish if anything but we can cut em down for the vase

and with impossibilium for a payload we lift the rocket out of the pocket
nothing can stop it
we can only watch it
