[Music & Lyrics by Suidakra]

See the winter is coming Falling leaves dance to a silent tune I'll take their hands I'll make them stand When they're all alone Years passed and the dawn of light Spread through time to leave tales behind

The Queen of witches Gathered the wisdom
For a year and a day
Gwion takes care of the cauldron

The spell is broken Flown into the youth They're hunting and chasing Through the hills and braes

The queen of witches
swallowed the young lad
So in year and a day Taliesin the wise rose from the dead

[Chorus:]
Praise the one who breaks the circle
The one who dyes all grey away Laud the army of dwarves and elves Companions for the final day

Now see the man in legends veiled A wise, a brave, of fortune hailed Now hear the man and his flaming rhyme Divinely anthems for glorious times

The king of mortal
And the source of wisdom
For a year and a day
Taliesin's the guard of the cauldron

[Chorus]
5. To Rest in Silence

[Music & Lyrics by Suidakra]

Fear his words creating worlds for now and ever a living memory

Holding the crown he reigns all alone one man, one will but no destiny

Straight through the memories of woe into the fields of buried glee here the wilting dreams below source and ending of this story

Fall down to your knees to adore the lie Fill the power and right to reign in violence time and failure have sharpened our mind disarmed and voicless it finally has to rest in silence

Hear the tales of thousands and one death of revange and wreath see the veils which cover our mind silently making us blind

Silentium est aurum step back to where it once began silentium est aurum
the adornment in our requiem

So die in lies...

He's creeping through the depths of living holding out until the end no remorse and no forgiving all he learned is to pretend
