[Music & Lyrics by Suidakra]

Fear his words creating worlds for now and ever a living memory

Holding the crown he reigns all alone one man, one will but no destiny

Straight through the memories of woe into the fields of buried glee here the wilting dreams below source and ending of this story

Fall down to your knees to adore the lie Fill the power and right to reign in violence time and failure have sharpened our mind disarmed and voiceless it finally has to rest in silence

Hear the tales of thousands and one death of revenge and wreath see the veils which cover our mind silently making us blind

Silentium est aurum
step back to where it once began silentium est aurum
the adornment in our requiem

So die in lies...

He's creeping through the depths of living holding out until the end no remorse and no forgiving all he learned is to pretend
