Lets rest a while, stay a while
Wrap your arms around me
Keep me safe

Through the echo of the woods unknown
We're racing through the night
Covered by darkness, courage is fading
We're living in fear

They are hunting us down to the ground
Hear the baying of the hounds
We'll find a cave we will hide away
But the danger is all around us

Everyday and every night running
Every day and every night running

Rest a while, stay awhile by this forest stream
And we'll be safe till the morning comes

Listen carefully to every sound
In the sheltering trees
The shout of the hunter is calling our names out
But we will survive

Every day and every night running away
Every day and every night running away
