You're going on with boys you don't know well, you live in your hotel
And on me you wait expectantly for someone to treat you well..

You see, all the faces around you but babe they are all the same..

You paint your pains, the fairytale refrain are swimming in your head You earn your keep your so () your going to sweep the flowers from your bed.

You leave, with a lash of the tongue baby how could you be so good To me, I sing a song in your name but it won't be quite
the same

You speak to the sad name around you Give in to insincerity again

You're going on with boys you don't know well, but we don't kiss and tell
And secretly you wait for them to see an alien oh well

You leave slip away with the shade of the day in the dark
