I had a dream
Which was not all a dream
Rayless, and pathless
The bright sun was extinguished

I had a dream
Which was not all a dream
Rayless, and pathless
The bright sun was extinguished
And the stars did wander darkling in the eternal space

Rayless and pathless, the icy earth swung blind and blackening in the moonless air
Morning came and went, and came again and again but brought no day
And men forgot their passions in the dread

The bright sun was extinguished
