Do you remember what you said, what went through ya head

What made you change into this shit instead

You keep running to hide you [unverified]

You take victims with you no matter what they decide

Who's got a burnt out soul

Yeah, you got a burnt out soul

No, I didn't see you fall down

Can you remember all the times you changed your fuckin' mind

Who had to pick up the pieces you left behind

I hate what you've become you can't see what you've done

What made you think you're the chosen one

Hey, one day you'll find respect and things will be better

Hey, in the end you'll face the things that matter

And I don't need you again

Now your left with no control

You take a heavy toll, you have to face the mirror on your own

I hope you don't like what you have to see

'Cos that's what's left in front of you and me
