ive been down this road before but tonight i cant stay between the lines its whats under that skirt thats pushing us into the oncoming

& you were looking forward while i was looking backward
im a victim of your time our eyes black as our hearts & i was searching outward and you were hoping someone would compromise in time
(but in this light they shine like a thousand candles lit in remembrance)

flashing headlights and horns fill the night & all thats on my mind is getting you home but for all the wrong reasons or are they right?
or are they right?

how strange is it that after we collide & bopnoes break through glass that we still hold these smiles we still hold these smiles for all the wrong reasons

backward
(but in this light they shine like a thousand candles lit in remembrance)

in remembrance

remember these words

when you lose your touch you know what they say ill remember

its just the fact that all great poets will eventually kill themselves & sweetheart you should become a poet too.

backward
(but in this light they shine like a thousand candles lit in remembrance)
