(Buzz Rabin - Dave Pittman)

Another day is over hard work and play comes to an end Evening shadows grow long and strong as the dawn of night begins Supper's over, prayers are said, the kids are tucked in and that's when Gentle arms serve me love and peace of mind it's man and wife time.

I lay beside her and I realize I am such a lucky man
For I've got everything that life has to offer in my hands
And I'm happy deep within as I hold her in my hands And she knows she's mine and only mine at man and wife time.

God has given me an angel for my very own
And she's brought a bit of heaven to my life She's filled our home with love
She's taught our children right from wrong
And loved me so completely as my wife.

The years go by like hours and silver creeps into her hair
But the love in her eyes survives never dies it's always there Reassuring telling me time has handled with care what we share
And heaven can't offer more than what I find at man
and wife time.

Man and wife time man and wife time...
