(M. Harris)

She may try to tell you
That she's never ever felt a fiery kiss
She may look into your eyes and say
I've never known the love like this.

She may say her body's never felt the heat
From love's burnin' flame
Ah, but she'll remember
When she hears my name.

She may look at you and say
No one else has occupied her mind
She may say it's virgin ground
And then you'll think it's called the waitin' time.

Then you'll whisper words to her
She'll tell you that you're the first to say
Ah, but she'll remember when
She thinks of yesterday.

Now, I don't wanna be the one
To mess up on the things you've done
'Cause I know you think you wanna cry
But if you ever doubt she's true
There's one thing you shouldn't do
Don't ever look into her eyes.

She may say she's never said
I love you to another man before
She might forget the times we bluffed
And all the times I heard her beg for more.

She may try to face it out
And yet behind her eyes it's still the same
Yes, but she'll remember
When she hears my name.

Yes, but she'll remember
When she hears my name...
