(John D. Loudermilk)

Darling, if our love could be once again
Like it used to be
While I hold you close to me
This time I would know.

Little things we left unsaid
Forever will be left unsaid
It would all be now instead
This time I would know.
This time I would know.

When you spoke with open eyes
The other talk would go
I love you then as I loved you now
But then I just didn't know.

Little things we left unsaid
Forever will be left unsaid
It would all be now instead
This time I would know.
This time I would know.

Darling, if our love could be
Once again like it used to be
While I hold you close to me
This time I would know.
This time I would know...
