(Jim Ed Brown)

You'll never know the thrill of loving
You never know what loving you can do
If for once you could be me.

Then darling, you would know
What I'm thinking when we're dancing
Know the meaning of my glances
You'll never know the thrill of loving.

You never know what loving you can do
Or feel your heartbeat when you look at you
Yes darling, you may live your whole life through
And never know the thrill of loving you.

--- Instrumental ---

You'll never know the thrill of kissing you
Or have the blues whenever you miss you
You've never held you in your arms
So darling, you don't know a heart that's restless
A sigh so breathless felt the warmth of your caress.

You'll never know the thrill of loving you
Or feel your heartbeat when you look at you
My darling you may live your whole life through
And never know the thrill of loving you...
