Standing on this battlefield of strong opinion
Among the verbal brush and briar
Plenty of weaponry and ammunition
We say ready aim fire

So you argue points of logic until I'm put in my place
And I argue my convictions until I'm blue in the face but

We just keep on going round in circles
Lost, found, life is such a mystery
We search and we find opposing answers
Maybe we should just agree to disagree

Can we meet on neutral ground
For surrender
And carve a path for restitution
Because my love for you is surely strong enough
To find some kind of resolution

Cause we can have our differences
And that won't change the way I feel
About you and about me and about God
And His whole deal but

We just keep on going round in circles
Lost, found, life is such a mystery
We search and we find opposing answers
Maybe we should just agree to disagree

Cause we are getting nowhere fast
When the concrete and the supernatural clash
So we will stand at other ends with all this stuff
But can't we find a common thread in love

And in our thirsting quest for knowledge
Maybe one day we will find
That I finally see it your way
Or you finally see it mine

We just keep on going round in circles
Lost, found, life is such a mystery
We search and we find opposing answers

Maybe we should just agree to disagree
