I stood in the warmth of night
Chilled to the bone
Hundreds of faces in sight
Still I'm alone

Door after door
Room after empty room
I've stood here before
But under a different moon

In the longest days, in the darkest night
Down the longest road, there's a presence of light
But I hear a voice that calls me
It's love's name I'll call in the end, oh yeah

Oh, I've walk in and out of the fire
Between truth and lies
Now how many children watch
While one child cries

Tear down these walls
And watch while our souls are freed
I've thrown away pride
To drown in this endless sea

In the longest days, in the darkest night
Down the longest road, there's a presence of light
But I hear a voice that calls me
It's love's name I'll call in the end

Oh, oh
In the longest days, in the darkest night
Down the longest road, there's a presence of light
Oh but I hear a voice that calls me
It's love's name I'll call in the end

Hundreds of tears on the water
Mercy come rain down on me
Hundreds of tears on the water
Mercy come rain down on me, oh yeah

Hundreds of tears on the water

Mercy come rain down on me
Hundreds of tears on the water
Mercy come rain down on me
