Well you left in a hurry
For that train in Montgomery
Left me here with a whole lot of nothing
But I ain't too worried
Cause you left me with some more

Of that Tuesday night rain,
Wednesday morning storm

And I watched as you ran kind of wildly
And you knew I was feeling a little poor
But I told you to take as much as you could carry

Of that Tuesday night rain,
Wednesday morning storm

And all the liquor in the world couldn't save me
From the pain that you left at the door

Of that Tuesday night rain,
Wednesday morning storm

That Tuesday night rain,
Wednesday morning storm

Well the doctor said you ain't really sick boy
But it's something that I can't replace
And you should go, 'cause I ain't got nothing to offer you
That your tears can't restrain
So be prepared for some more

Of that Tuesday night rain,
Wednesday morning storm
