Back And Forth by Earl Greyhound
I was lonely

Cast the first stone

Don't show your hands to me I know where you've been

You say you was borderline

Outcast and concubine

Mixed up your friends and mine and did what you did

Yeah me I was holding out

Lest you should come around

Then I grew sober and I did what I did

Still I am lonely and I can't find my coat can't cross back to shore and in case you care what I think

Hell I'm back and forth

I can't tell which one's worse yet

Growing cruel to each other

Or stand crying there's no other

I was lonely

Passed my way home

Don't put your glass to me you know what this is

You say you was always right

Mixed up but more the wise

Sipped down your holy wine and did what you did

Yeah me I was waiting on

The chance that you'd come around

Then I took over and I did what I did

Still I am lonely and I can't find my coat can't get up off the floor

And if you care what I think

Hell I'm back and forth

I can't tell which one's worse yet

Growing cruel to each other

Or stand crying there's no other

I get so mixed up so sad I can't tell which one's worse

I'm hoping that you'll come back home this time

It's the same hasn't changed

I still can't explain why I feel so ashamed

I don't care so much now baby I don't want to complicate it

I only want you there to see that I love you when I forget about me

Hell I'm back and forth

I can't tell which one's worse yet

Growing cruel to each other

Or stand crying there's no other

Hell I'm back and forth

I can't tell which one's worse yet

Growing cruel to each other

Or stand crying there's no other
