

Johnny Lang

"Wander This World"

Visit "Wander This World" on MotoLyrics.com

The tar in the streets starts to melt from the heat and the sweat's runnin' down on my hair

i walked twenty miles, and I'm draggin my feet

I'll walk twenty more, I dont care

I wander this world

Wander this world

Wander this world, I wander this world all alone

Well I'm like a ghost some people can see

Others just drive by and stare

A shadow that drifts on the side of the road

And it's like I'm not even there

I wander this world, wander this world

Said I wander this world

Wander this world all alone

Well I've never been a part of the game

The life that I live is my own

All that I know is that I was born to wander this world all alone, all alone

Yeah...

Some people hop on with their lives all laid out and all of their success is assured

Some people work hard all their lives for nothin'
They take it, and they don't say a word
Don't say a word
Sometimes its like I dont even exist
Even God has lost track of my soul
So why on earth would he leave me out here like this to wander this world all alone and I wander this world
I wander this world
Wander this world
Wander this world all alone
And I wander this world
Wander this world (3x)
All alone (4x)

Visit Johnny Lang page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.