Zephyr & I stand out on
West End Avenue
Talking about the things that
All of us used to do

And the wind kicks up with the smell of rain
And the kids are gone but the souls remain

Zephyr & I sort out our
Long term memories
"Do you remember"
He says, "The 1970's?"

This was a youth mall
Of America on this street
All of us hanging here
Like underage cops on a beat

And the wind kicks up in the smell of rain
(Smell of rain)
Now the kids are gone but their souls remain
(Souls remain)

The graffiti goes but the walls retain
(Walls retain)
And the flowers go but the earth must still remain

In spring the tide in riverside will
Wash away the cold and frozen
River rain will clean the stain and
Wash away, wash away downstream

Out on the corner by the
Fireman's Monument
That was the place where all the Fatherless teenagers went

Well, the wind kicks up in the smell of rain
(Smell of rain)
And the kids are gone but the souls remain
(Souls remain)

The graffiti's gone and the walls complain
(Walls retain)
And the flowers go but the earth must still remain
