Days that were golden

Memory often strays

Before anyone could gaze

At Molly's and May's

Little ankle displays

Time with its changes

Often arranges

Styles that become the craze

But I am yearning

To be returning

Back to those crinoline days

[Refrain:]

In those dear old crinoline days

Old fashioned people with their old fashioned ways

When the girl a fellow courted

Was the girl he married and supported

Back in eighteen seventy-four

Rosy complexions weren't bought in a store

Granny and grand-daddy longingly gaze
