Let me know why you're confused

If it's not too late, don't treat me like no other.

All I've done is begged you to stay

There's more of a chance that we will always be apart.

There's only you in my life

So we've got to make it right

All I need is love and affection

And someone who could be mine

Show me now what you're thinking about me

I really want to know all that goes on inside you

Cause whenever I need your attention

you whisper someone's name

And the joy turns to pain.

Show me now why my world isn't changing you're standing in the way all the time you're pretending

make believe all the crying is over, you're driving me insane

think it over again, show me now.

Don't you turn your back on me

How can I explain these words are coming from the heart

Let us remember the days when you were closer to me come on baby there is no other you can't keep saying we're through show me now ...
