It's only gonna break your heart again
Why should you let it start again, it always ends
It isn't worth the trouble or the price you'd have to pay
Well, it's sad that you look at love that way

Really this is all a waste of time
Can't I see I'm only wasting mine?
And don't I understand we'd never make it anyway
It's a shame that you look at love that way

'Cause love like life is only what you make it out to be
And if you would only open up your heart, I'm sure you'd see
All the good that people laugh and talk about
And all the good that hearts aren't meant to live without

The good that I could give to you
The good that you could give me too
But no, it isn't worth another try
You'd rather turn your back and close your eyes

And it doesn't really matter what I do or say
But it hurts me that you look at love that way
Hmm, yes it hurts me that you look at love that way
