

Eisenhower

"Beautiful Reflection"

Visit "Beautiful Reflection" on MotoLyrics.com standing alone at the the end of line and it feels like ive been here for a year leaning and facing over the edge and i tried to hide my fear waiting for you, i close my eyes and i hope to see that you've arrived waiting for you, i've realized that you're right there in front of me your beautiful reflection lights the air (and i know that you'll bring me back)

your beautiful reflection lights the air (and i know that you'll carry me home) standing again at the edge alone and it feels just like the day before the feeling i had has gone away and i feel it more and more waiting for you, i close my eyes and i tried to see you in my eyes
waiting for you, i've realized that you'll never leave me behind
your beautiful reflection lights the air (and i know that you'll bring me back)
your beautiful reflection lights the air (and i know that you'll carry me home) im standing here, so far below im forced to know the things i know ?????... and turn again i need your eyes to show the way i need someone to take me where im blind and i dont even care need your beautiful reflection
your beautiful reflection lights the air (and i know that you'll bring me back)
your beautiful reflection lights the air (and i know, i know you'll carry me home)
your beautiful reflection lights the air (i know you'll carry me home)
your beautiful reflection lights the air

