Have you seen my mind? It's not the same again
I'm feeling tired but looking wired
Cement my rules, chicane my hand away
I know this truth and so do you

I think I'm coming down off something
I could be coming down off something
I must be coming down off something called love

I know your type, I've seen the films they made
Who knows what's more and that's the score
Don't call my friends, forgot their names again
I've broken low, a shimmered stone

I think I'm coming down off something
I could be coming down off something
I must be coming down off something called love

Don't let me sink again
Love, don't let me go

I think I'm coming down off something
I could be coming down off something
I think I'm coming down off something
I could be coming down off something

I think I'm coming down off something
I could be coming down off something
I must be coming down off something called love

I think I'm coming down off something
I could be coming down off something
I must be coming down off something called love

Oh, love
Oh, love
Oh, love
Oh

I think I'm coming down
I think I'm coming down
I think I'm coming down

I think I'm coming down
I think I'm coming down
I think I'm coming down
