"Oh These Nights"

Oh these nights these lonely nights when you are all alone
Your pillow smells good from a girl you hardly know Oh these nights when lights are out and you begin to think About what is what and that is not before we start to sink

Then you remember her that were
The most important in your world
You wonder what she's doing now
And who is lying by her side

Oh these nights these lonely nights when it's to late to call
Oh those nights when music doesn't comfort you at all

Then you remember her that were
The most important in your world
You wonder what she's doing now
And who is lying by her side

Oh these nights when you've been out and smells from cigarettes
And you can only think of all the things that you regret

Then you remember her that were
The most important in your world
Now you wonder what it would be like To still be laying by her side
