It's hard to believe
You could be such a disease
I can no longer separate what's real
Hope that fate will find me safe
All my reflections laugh at me
You made me hide my name
It just feels bad to say
That there'll be another day
What you wanted was impossible to define
The words I hear are of scrambled letters
Guess it's been there for years
It never let me know I was alright
What you wanted was a mystery to me
The words I hear are of scrambled letters
Guess it's been there for years
It never let me know I was alright
Building a room with no doors
Is this the last of me?
Wring the rag for the last few drops
Falling into infinity
What you wanted was impossible to define

The words I hear are of scrambled letters

Guess it's been there for years

It never let me know I was alright

What you wanted was a mystery to me

The words I hear are of scrambled letters

Guess it's been there for years

It never let me know I was alright
