In a movie, on a silver screen, lookin' like a angel.
Not the same now as it might've been, runnin' outta reach of your heart.

You once knew a little girl, only thing she wanted was love, your love.
It was true, every night and every day you were the only thing that she would think of.

But the light, of the stage not the light in your eye, it began to call her name.
And now you fight all the people everywhere,
'Cos they try just to share a little moment of her fame.

But Jenny don't mind if you love her, she won't have the time to call you and thank you.
Jenny don't like to say
