My eyes are dry for the first time in a long time.
I walk out the door with my dignity, with my head held high.

As I near the edge, I realize
Im one step, one step closer to you
Will I face my fear
and take the fall
For something, something I didnt do
Through all the years, Ive held on,
To something, something I always knew
Now this is why Ive
Survived, Ive survived, the hell you put me through

My eyes are dry for the first time in a long time.
I walk out the door with my dignity, with my head held high.

Over all that time, I became
Binded, Blinded by your voice
My unspoken words will come out
Come out loud and clear.

My eyes are dry for the first time in a long time.
I walk out the door with my dignity, with my head held high.

Unspoken Melody
My censored words

My eyes are dry for the first time in a long time.
I walk out the door with my dignity, with my head held high.

My eyes are dry for the first time in a long time.
I walk out the door with my dignity, with my head held high.
