Today I dread
Getting out of bed
Ten years later I still remember what was said
This vision's burning my eyes
Do you know the way I feel inside

Can't remember the last night that I slept through
So cold like December
My heart has surrendered
Can't remember the last time that I held you
Another time in a long line of things I would change in my life
But I can't have it all
I can't have it all

A brand new day
Starts the same way
As it has a hundred thousand times
I've got to change my life
Do you know the way this burns inside

Can't remember the last night that I slept through
So cold like December
My heart has surrendered
Can't remember the last time that I held you
Another time in a long line of things I would change in
my life
But I can't have it all
I can't have it all

I'll live and breathe
Without you to see
What you've taken out of me

Can't remember the last night that I slept through
So cold like December
My heart has surrendered
Can't remember the last time that I held you
Another time in a long line of things I would change

Can't remember the last night that I slept through

So cold like December
But I can't have it all
I can't have it all
