I sat alone and thought about the way that things have been workin out
I can't believe this year has passed
While I've accomplished nothing fast

All the things I've known are going away
And I don't think I have to let them fade
Cause these days aren't moving much
But I know that we've all change a touch Forget about the way it used to be Cause we've both got too much responsibility
This year will end up like the rest
After many more trials and tests

I've fought so well the fight of fighting to hold on
And will you remember me when I'm gone
Cause I know I won't, know I can't forget you Please tell me that you can't forget me too
We won't experience this year together
When we meet again we'll probably talk about the weather
Cause that's what people do when they grow apart
And that's what we'll do when we grow apart

Tonight is the night we change
Tonight it will never be the same
