crashing down in London town it seems so long coming down cause i remember
i remember
another day filled with rain another night screaming "PAIN" it frightens me to think that it could fade

home is far away
home is far away

given life to meanings end a brand new face... a truer friend do you remember?
i'm coming back, i'll see you then the Cold Room where it began you pulled me up before i knelt to pray

home is far away
home is far away

long drives the sounds of "TURNPIKE" tearing through your golden countryside white lights shining from the sky my one regret was that i couldn't stay

home is far away
home is far away

i can't see you
i can't leave you
you won't leave my mind
