You think that when you got up and walked out, you left me.

Little did you know you spent all night locked in my memory.

No matter how hard I try you keep inventing new ways to break inside my mind and its only fair,
you keep me trapped with you, everywhere.

Moments when I'm unsecured riding with my hands in the air.

I want to be carefree live effortlessly with you in your stare.

Getting closer to the end of the day and I still have the night to bear.

My emotional cruise stops at you.

Could you meet me when I arrive there?

No matter what stunt they try,

I'll navigate this plane to land safely by your side and it's only right that when I ask you to join me, you take flight.

Here you are in my view and I have submerged myself in your eyes.

I'm at a loss for words,
every night I toss and turn.

The words are hard to find.

Said the words are hard to find.

No matter if your completely unaware.

I'll tell you what I want to hear although I'm scared and it's only fair that when I ask you, you tell me you are there.

Here you are in my view and I have submerged myself in your eyes.

I'm at a loss for words,
every night I toss and turn.

The words are hard to find.

Said the words are hard to find.

Said the words are hard to find.

You think that when you got up and walked out, you left me.
Little did you know you spent all night locked in my memory.
No matter how hard I try you keep inventing new ways to break inside my mind and its only fair, you meet me halfway there.
