I will hold your hand unabashedly
Down these conservative small town streets
Let their eyes criticize us
Guess they never learned how to recognize love

I will kiss you in a busy city makin time to show our love for all to see If they attempt to lessen strength of the truest form of showing trust
I'll say they never learned the art of recognizing love

Love shouldn't have to hide
Love should make you wanna tell everybody
Love shouldn't have to hide
Love should make you wanna tell everybody
Love.

A double standard, traditional
The world can change, it has before
If sex is all they see when they picture the two of us Then I hope they take the time to understand what they call
What they call, what they call
love.

One day we'll see ourselves on screen in each other's eyes
So high to see two in love materialize
All bars no orientation, the streets won't as well Love has a track record of overcoming and love always will.

Love shouldn't have to hide
Love should make you wanna tell everybody
Love shouldn't have to hide
Love should make you wanna tell everybody (x 2)
Love shouldn't have to hide
