They told me what I should do
They gave me a way to get to you
You never stood a chance
The screen is never truly blank and I can't hide my mind
Behind lie words that tear inside of me
Their faces find me anywhere and in my room I feel their stare
The walls are cold they shimmer blue
Their vision hides inside of you

This Circuit Vision

My memories fade and I appear Submerged and lost in digit beams I confine myself within myself
A circuit glows I feel the need
An interface 'tween man/machine
They boot my mind and steal my dreams as they feed me deep inside
Fractal code interlocking my spine
Feeding new format breaking mine down
System runs steady
Colour code true ID# strands altered
Connecting me to you
...this Circuit Vision

You couldn't dream you had no mind but now my eyes see only what you feed me
Conversely seen it's all so clear
Behind the news they're always there The integration's just begun I make my move when they say so
My eyes feed
Data they must know
A night of secrets by the screen is all the programming
I need
