She's such in the corner thinking about all the things she has done.

She says she's the only one to blame the candle next to her seems brighter than the light in her heart

No one understands her pain

They just don't get hurt

She's called been the story
she's only 17
there's no one to protect her she's just like you and me I don't think it's fair
Can no one see
what is going on

she grasp to have the scars she's taking pills
to make it go away

she grasp the selfish sleep at night When people pointer her and treat her like she doesn't belong
she just closes her eyes

They don't, I get hurt

she's only 17
there's no one to protect her
she's just like you and me
I don't think it's fair

what is going on

She's dying in tact no one around to looking for love
there's one around

Everything else feels like a daily dream
i can no believe someone to find this love has all she needs

You couldn't understand even if you try you won't believe what is like to fell this way

A thousand voices
trying make you fell like everything is your fault

It just won't go away

They don't, I get hurt

what is going on X2

what is going on... with her
