September never stays this cold where I come from and you know i'm not (i'm not one) one for complaining (for complianing) but i'd love the way you'd roll excuses off the tip of your tounge
as i slowly (slowly quietly slowly) fall apart (fall apart)

I said this wont mean a thing come tomorrow and thats exactly how i'll make it seem because i'm still not sleeping thinking i'v crawled home from worse than this so please (please) im running out of sympathy and i never said i'd take this no i never said i'd take this lying down she says come on come on let's just get this over with

she says come on come on let's just get this over with
i never said i'd take this lying down (she say's come on come on let's just get this over with) i'v crawled home from worse than this (she say's come on come on let's just get this over
from worse than this

you always come close but you never come easy (i still know everything)
you always come close but you never come easy (i still know everything)
you always come close but you never come easy (i still know everything i still know i still know eveything i still know)

you always come close but this never comes easy you always come close but you never come easy your coming (coming) close
i never said i'd take this lying down

but i've crawled home from worse than this if it's not keeping you up nights then what's the point (then what's the point)
then what's the point (then what's the point)

i'm in your room, is this turning you on am i turning you on i'm in your room are you turned on i'm on the corner of your bed practically naked are you turned on are you turned on
