The dangerous games that you play
You can't take away the words when you say
"I love you, you"

But I don't have a thing left to live on or lose
And the light in your eyes shines the lie that was you
Take my word but it don't mean much
And you're making it worse with your touch

But I'm so lost inside of you
'Cause I can't trust that this is true
Whoever's eyes I try my sight's still set on you
But I'm so scared to see this through
Because it's never enough

The devious looks that you make
The promises stray, you push me away
I hate you, you
