The black that bleeds the dreams she leaves
Are open veins that stain her sleeves
And now the lonely street's her only friend tonight

But the lights are cold, the lies are old
And all she wants is to go home
She bites her lip and shuts her eyes
And sings herself a lullaby

Take me away
Hold on tight and kiss the night, there's nothing left to say
Take me away
Open wide and whisper, I can almost hear her say

She loves the rush, she loves the thrill
She loves the hunt, she loves the kill
Deep inside she knows it's her who dies each time

But the lights are cold, the lies are old
And all she wants is to go home
She bites her lip and shuts her eyes

And sings herself a lullaby

Take me away
say
Take me away
Open wide and whisper, I can almost hear her say

Just take me home
Take me home

Wipe back the black to free the blue
Now honey it's just me and you
And I'll kill 'em all if you ask me to
But all she says is...

Take me away
say

Take me away
Open wide and whisper, I can almost hear her say

Just take me home
Take me home
