Look up now - there's no need to be ashamed
You don't have to wear it - take it off
Look up now - and don't pretend

In the limelight you could take another bow
Would anybody see you?
You can run in circles
You could chain yourself
Would there anybody be there there to release you?
Don't speak now - and don't turn around

When the moon kisses town
And all the elves coming over
No more lies and no disguise anymore
Shame's just a word and nothing further
Do not turn around
When the moon kisses town
Move along now - do not look behind
There's nothing to forget - let it lie
Move on now and don't turn around
When the moon kisses town

And all the elves coming over
No more lies and no disguise anymore
Shame's just a word and nothing further
Do not turn around
When the moon kisses town

Look up now - there's no need to be ashamed
You don't have to wear it - take it off
Look up now - while the world calms down

And the moon kisses town

And all the elves coming over
No more lies and no disguise anymore
You can take away the cover now
Look up now see the world calm down

When the moon kisses town
