I want to move in time with you

I want to breathe in rhyme with you

I want to feel the deepest kiss

And I want to know you feel like this

For this one time, one time

Let my body do what it feels

For just one time, one time

Let this fantasy become real

Because I am not afraid to let you see this side of me

I want to feel your hand in mine

And I want to feel that rush in my spine

And I want to wear the scent of you

And do all the things you want me to

For this one time, one time

Let my body do what it feels

For just one time, one time

Let this fantasy become real

Because I am not afraid to let you see this side of me

I feel the danger, the separation

I want to take your invitation

This separation it's all around

I need this side of me

I want to move in time with you

I want to breathe in rhyme with you

I want to stitch my clothes in sin

And in the dark

I want to find that door and go within

For this one time, one time

Let my body do what it feels

For just one time, one time

Let this fantasy become real

Because I am not afraid to let you see this side of me
