I will run the streets and hostile lands
I will touch the rain with all I have
I will breathe the air, just scream it loud
My feet will never touch the ground

Because the days they feel like ancient clocks
Like when kids grow up and learn to walk
Because your life is full of pure desire
A place so gloriously wired

The lights and sounds, oh God, this is such a mess
And it's like our world but we're the last ones left
And the hair it stands on the back of our necks
And I swear it shows, heaven must be just like this

Do you see the hills beneath the clouds?
The stars are spread to lead you out
Can you sense the pain, it's everywhere?
And if you try you'll never care

And the love you had when you were young
Is right outside for all to come
Because your life is full of pure desire
A life so gloriously wired

The lights and sounds, oh God, this is such a mess
And it's like our world but we're the last ones left
And the hair it stands on the back of our necks
And I swear it shows, heaven must be just like this

If you see the light break through the clouds
And fire up the distant towns
Now the world will begin
Exactly how it ends

When you call for help when you are lost
For evermore or whatever it costs
And the world will begin
Exactly how it ends

Please stay, don't go
I've got you now, are you curious?

Please stay, don't go
I've got you now, are you curious?

Please stay, don't go
I've got you now, are you curious?
Please stay, don't go
I've got you now, are you curious?

Please stay, don't go
I've got you now, are you curious?
Please stay, don't go
I've got you now, are you curious?

Please stay, don't go
I've got you now, now
