a preacher shuns his brother cuz his bride's a different color and this is not acceptable his papa taught him so it was love that he'd be preachin but this was overreachin the boundaries stretchin farther than his heart would choose to go like an angel with no wings like a kingdom with no king what have we become a self indulgent people

tell me where the righteous ones
what have we become
in a world degenerating what have become

speak your mind
look out for yourself the answer to it all is a life of wealth grab all you can cuz you just live once you got the right to do whatever you want don't worry bout others or where you came from it ain't what you were it's what you have become mom and dad are fighting as rosie lies there crying for once again she's overheard regrets of their mistake christmas bells are ringing little rosie leaves them grieving the gift she'll give her family will be the pills she'd take an inconvenient child she wasn't worth their while chorus

what about love?
what about God?
what about holiness?
what about mercy, compassion and selflessness
