I'm looking at this bleak state
Thinking how I'm gonna' walk straight through Hoping it'll create
A stronger mind and better view
I'm looking at this blank slate
Hoping that the colours reappear
To paint a picture of the past
So beautiful but so unclear

It's beyond repair
I'm done, I swear, yeah

So sing with me screaming woah, woah
Let's light up the stars like years ago, woah
No one can stop me, so I'll whisper softly:
"The sun may shine today, reach here and feel the rain."

I'm looking for an escape
The only one I seem to find is you
I can only sit and wait
For someone else to guide me through
To see and take me by the hand
Yeah, you walk me through and show me things can change
Repaint that picture of the past
To pick me up, and help me stand

It's beyond repair
I'm done, I swear, yeah

So sing with me screaming woah, woah
Let's light up the stars like years ago, woah
No-one can stop me, so I'll whisper softly:
"The sun may shine today, reach here and feel the rain."

Looking back I wish you hadn't taken words as pretence Everything I said I meant and nothing less, just see sense
We've gone from lullabies through to polished eyes,

giving up he cries:

"Just wake up and see, we can't be perfect in the way

I know that you desire to be

'cause real life is different to reel life."

'cause real life is different to reel life

So sing with me screaming woah, woah.

Let's light up the stars like years ago, woah.

No-one can stop me, so I'll whisper softly-

The sun may shine today, reach here and feel the rain.
