Some are born without feelings and some with too much
Some words cut the heart deeply and some heal it up
(It all keeps turning round)

And though this road never ends
I won't give up till I win

Here I go again
Here I go
There's something strange I can't explain with the world where I'm from

Some welcome love inside and some spit it out
(It all keeps turning round)
When they need it most some think they've had enough

And though some try bring me down
Won't let them blow out my sun

Here I go again
Here I go
With brand new feelings of mixed up meanings that now fill me up
Here I go again
Here I go
There's one thing I can try explain about my world
It don't work without love

Here I go again
Here I go
There's something strange I can't explain with the world where I'm from
Here I go again
Here I go
It's just like magic, can't understand it
The way that it works
Here I go
Try to figure it out again
This beautiful world I'm in Before I'm gone
