

Falcon, The

"R.L. Burnouts Inc"

Visit "R.L. Burnouts Inc" on MotoLyrics.com

Slit my throat from ear to ear
And drink my blood like wine
I ain't afraid of living, boy
And I ain't afraid to die

I ain't no goddamn vampire
And I ain't leaking tears
It's not about them photographs
Or counting out them beers

'Cuz I've stood out that corner
And I've waited for that man
I've felt the beat pump through these veins
As the money changed its hands

I've walked these lonely city roads
And I've climbed these purple hills
I've stood itching and waiting
Goddamn
Goddamn, I'm waiting still

Have you ever felt the sunrise
In twitching aching arms
Or held your black spots in you palm
And squeezed and loved them hard?

My city's so forgiving
But this life, it ain't no living
Take me home

Take me home
Take me home

You never cry in bottles
You cry when you get home
When you watch your life walk out the door
And you fall asleep alone

I got my shit together
But the lord knows where I'm going
Take me home

Take me home
Take me home

Slit my throat from ear to ear
And drink my blood like wine
I ain't afraid of living, boy
And I ain't afraid to die

I've stood out that corner
And I've waited for that man
I've felt the beat pump through these veins
While the money changed its hands

I've walked these lonely city roads
And I've climbed these purple hills
I've stood itching and waiting
Goddamn
Goddamn, I'm waiting still

I'm waiting still
I'm waiting still

I'm waiting still

Visit Falcon, The page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.