Nothing left to lose, nothing left to say when your big break's getting away give me anything to love anything to do or i'll be no different than you well if you want it, you take it they'll never ever give it to you Looking for something to take me away running out of time and all i want is to burn this hourglass Looking for something i needed today losing my mind and all i need is to smash this hourglass Something's got to give someone's got to live but my future's dark as the night can anybody see how hard it can be when your switch wont turn on the light i stared right into the sun today just to feel my naked eyes burn but no matter how much i may tell myself it seems that i never will learn Nothing left to lose nothing left to say everything to gain...
