Smoke fills the sky
Another day in a new town for me
I look for the light
Under the clouds, beyond the concrete

Up here I hide
Watching the crowds move along

Down those grey streets, I am lost here
In my dreams all alone, I still

Go back, in the memory of my home
Anticipating
One day you'll follow

Oh it's been too long
Since I could see the stars overhead

We used to count them
Shared all our passions, and swore not to tell

I hold them now
And now I know where those stars fell

Days would fly by
When you were mine
Like these dreams I have known, I still

Go back, in the memory of your shores
Left you there waiting
So long ago

Right there, in the memory of my home
Anticipating
One day you'll follow

One day you'll follow

I'll be here waiting for you
