"Sunday Morning"

from the first time i saw you standing across the room we both wanted something, not knowing what to do biting off my fingernails thinking what i want to say maybe now forever i'll remember that day and i still see you when i close my eyes it didn't take long for me to realize all i want is you to be the only one to ever call out my name sunday mornings will never be the same it might sound scary, but don't let go of my hand fall in love whenever you can call it love at first sight, but it'll be love every time and if you give me your heart you know i'll give you mine holding you in my arms, nothing's ever felt so right i'll pretend you're next to me just so i can sleep tonight

i know no one's perfect until you fall in love, i think it's funny how fast you're becoming perfect.

i'd call you an angel, but you mean much more to me and where ever you are, is a place i'd like to be so easy on my eyes, but heavy on my heart thinking of you constantly every second we're apart
